

Intalio Warehouse & Inventory

1. What is Warehouse & Inventory System?

It's the process of tracking products throughout the entire supply chain, from suppliers to sales.

2. Why is the Warehouse & Inventory System important?

Every business must track and control inventory

The Inventory System automates the complex processes of many inventory-related operations: packing, storing, dispatching, tracking, reporting.

3. Inventory challenges

- Compliance with rules and regulations: abiding by local and international inventory rules (SEC), and warehouse techniques (LIFO, FIFO...)
- Stock details: traditional ways of stock data collection (paper-based)
- Slow processes: manual operations that increase the risk of error
- Market trend alignment: inability to keep pace with the fast changes of the market trends and customers' tastes
- Poor usage of physical space: difficulty in locating goods
- Management difficulties: traditional inventory needs a larger workforce to manage (tracking, stocking, indexing, reporting).

4. Warehouse & Inventory System features

- Adheres to Governmental and Private sectors business
- E-Templates.
- Digital Signature.
- Custody tracking
- Reports and Dashboards
- Stock Monitoring
- Workflow Engine
- Security and Permissions
- APIs for integration with external systems
- Modern User Interface
- Powerful search
- Serial Numbers Tracking
- Easy management of complex multi-warehouses
- Inventory adjustments by zone, product
- Warehouse structure: zones, rows, shelves
- Digital receipts
- Easy packing and tracking
- Drop-shipping
- Fast and easy Cross-Docking
- Customized removal strategies
- Multi-Warehouses
- Barcode Scanners
- Custom Alerts
- Smart Scheduler

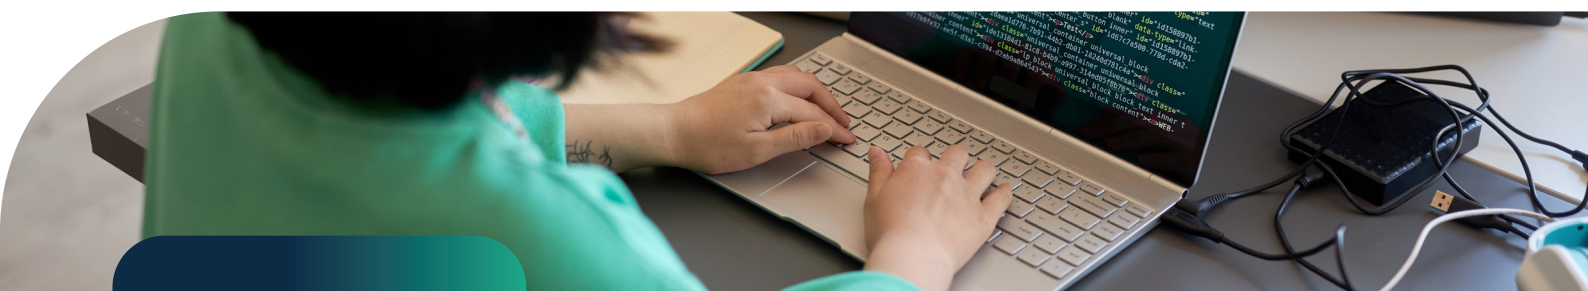

5. Warehouse & Inventory system benefits

- Cost reduction: low workforce and stationary costs, minimal product loss, business cash flow.
- Effort reduction: less time and effort in managing inventory and automated processes.
- Error reduction: minimal error throughout the whole chain.
- Elevated customer satisfaction: satisfied customers bring more business and more profit

6. Warehouse & Inventory system implementation

Our unique Inventory management system is found on Odoo.

Contact us <https://odoo.intalio.com/contactus> to request your demo.

✉ info@intalio.com

www.intalio.com